

PAST PURSUITS: Genealogy and Local History News at the Akron-Summit County Public Library

A Publication of the Special Collections Division

Volume 3 Number 2

Summer 2004

It hardly seems possible that we have been at our temporary location on Tallmadge Avenue for three years, and will soon return to the newly expanded and renovated Main Library. Our Tallmadge Avenue facility will close permanently at 5:00 p.m. on Saturday, September 11. We will reopen at 60 South High St. (note our new address) on Monday, October 11 at 9 a.m. The public is invited for a sneak preview and dedication on Sunday, October 10 from 2 until 5 p.m. Please join us for an afternoon of festivities featuring refreshments and entertainment.

With our return downtown, it is anticipated that Special Collections will be one of the gems of the new Main Library. We look forward to working in a state-of-the-art climate controlled facility that will provide the optimal environment for our genealogy and local history materials. Special Collections will be located on the third floor in the northwest corner of the new building. Our new space will include 7,000 light-filled (UV filtered glass, of course) square feet in our public service area, with additional storage areas to accommodate approximately two miles of shelving. Some of the new features we can look forward to include additional microfilm reader printers, tables equipped with connections for laptops, storage lockers for researchers, and plenty of room to accommodate our growing microfilm and book collections.

Another special feature of Special Collections will be a large exhibit case that will be used to display items from our collections, as well as other historical collections from our community. Because many of the items we maintain in Special Collections are unique and/or rare, Special Collections will be a secured area. Researchers will be asked to place personal items in storage lockers and sign in at the desk prior to entering the reference area, standard practice in most special collections libraries and archives. We know that our researchers will understand our commitment to preserving these unique materials. We are anxious to move into our new space, and look forward to continuing to provide the very best reference service to our regular and, hopefully, many new library customers. For updated information about our move, please see our website, www.ascpl.lib.oh.us.

We hope you enjoy this issue of Past Pursuits! As always, your comments and suggestions are welcome.

Genealogy Collection Highlights and Updates

News for the Genealogist

As the Library will be closed for nearly a month for relocation, we understand that your research may suffer some delays. However, we believe that the new facilities and collections will make up for the lost time.

There are a number of changes that may interest you. You will be able to browse the family histories in the open stacks. Large multi-volume collections such as Documents Relative to the Colonial History of the State of New York and Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors of the Revolutionary War will also be available in the open stacks. Access to new databases, New England Ancestors for example, and CD ROMs will be provided. We hope that you will be pleased with all of the new additions...especially those brand new additional microfilm/ fiche reader printers! We look forward to researching with you again.

Correspondence Notice

Providing you with excellent reference assistance is important to us. We will be unable to complete copy and research requests during the moving process. We will still accept email and mail requests. Your query will be answered as soon as possible.

Once again, they have come to the aid of those researching Summit County. Thanks!

Local History Collection Highlights and Updates

Sounds of Summit

The Special Collections Division is proud to announce our latest initiative, “Sounds of Summit”. We are now accepting donations in all formats of area music from Summit County-based musicians, professional or amateur, past and present. The local music wish list includes recordings by local pop, rock, country, blues, jazz, gospel, classical, R&B, rap/hip-hop, folk, and ethnic recording artists. The library is also accepting related historical materials such as photographs, posters, programs, flyers, and videos. All of these materials will be housed in our new Special Collections Division at Main Library.

Persons interested in donating materials to the Library should call the Special Collections Division at 330-643-9030, e-mail at speccollections@ascpl.lib.oh.us or visit our website at www.ascpl.lib.oh.us/main-sc.html. Please spread the word to individuals and any local groups you may know about how they can participate in this effort to help us preserve Summit County’s rich musical heritage.

Collections Finding Aids Now Available from Our Website

If you haven’t checked out our Special Collections website lately, go to: <http://ascpl.lib.oh.us/main-sc.html>, and under Local History click on “Collections”. Scroll down towards the bottom of the page where you will see links (highlighted in orange) to Finding Aids for several archival collections that we maintain in our division. These collections have all been donated to us, many of which contain interesting historical materials about particular people, places, and events in our area. The Finding Aids that we provide through these links serve as guides, or inventories that describe the materials in a particular collection. If you see something that piques your interest, give us a call ahead of time at 330-643-9030 so we can arrange a time for you to come in and take a closer look at a collection. Check with a Special Collections staff member for information about the contents of collections that are not highlighted as links.

Sacred Landmarks Study

For the past two summers the University of Akron has, through a grant from the Northeast Ohio Research Consortium Urban Universities Program, been looking at cemeteries in Summit County as important cultural indicators. Graves and their markers are always of special interest to archaeologists: they are receptacles that contain information about our past, our society, and our views of life and death.

The purpose of the Sacred Landmarks study has been threefold. First and second it sought to create a concise database in which aspects of Summit County cemeteries, markers, and inscriptions might be catalogued and then to usefully compare the data gathered in such a database. Such comparisons can yield relevant social and cultural information that can then be correlated into local histories. Of particular anthropological and archaeological interest are the changes in grave markers over time and what this might reflect about changing ideological values (including attitudes toward the dead), the impact of population and industrial growth, and the “business” of burial. Finally, and perhaps most importantly, this study created a set of tools that may be used by any interested party to continuously add to a community’s collective knowledge about its cemeteries.

The University of Akron Archives, the Department of Classical Studies, Anthropology, and Archaeology, and Progress Through Preservation have all worked together to make this study possible. See the Calendar of Events below for information about a tour of Glendale Cemetery and presentation about the Sacred Landmarks Project. For additional information about this project contact Megan Shaeffer at 330-972-7186.

Akron History Museum

This summer marks the second year for Lock 3 Park in downtown Akron. The City of Akron, in cooperation with the Summit County Historical Society, the University of Akron, the Akron-Summit County Public Library, the Lighter Than Air Society, the American Toy Marble Museum, and the TV Dinner Club has created a museum devoted to Akron’s industrial heritage featuring many interesting artifacts. From clay marbles (did you know that Akron was once the home of 28 marble factories?) to a prototype spacesuit, the museum provides a fascinating glimpse into 19th and 20th century life in Akron. Come and be surprised! The Akron History Museum will be open Saturdays from 9-2 during Homegrown Saturday Mornings through early October.
