Further Description of Important Features
Tall wood frame house with thin two-story gabled block and side one-story wing. Side shed-roof porch with turned posts, carved brackets, balustraded railing and saw-tooth vertical siding. Double entrances on porch with a tall 2X2 window. Foundation of coursed ashlar.

History and Significance
Having grown up working at his father's mill, Edward Heller moved to Bath in 1870 and bought the Ghent Mills in 1871. The mill, the largest and best in western Summit County, stood across the street on the Yellow Creek. The mill, powered by steam and water, was a saw and grist mill. It did both custom and merchant work. Heller operated another mill 1/2 mile east of Ghent where he owned 41 acres. He had this property until 1931.

Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The house stands near a quiet country road, in a hilly area of Bath Township covered with thick woods.
