Large Greek Revival structure with full pediments in each gable. 2 X 2 windows with plain surrounds. Central sideliteed entrance with full entablature and Ionic pilasters. Double entrances on inside corner with a continuous architrave and fluted Doric pilasters. There is a modern, one-storey wing.

43. History and Significance
This structure was used by E.H. Jagger as a store in 1856. By 1874, Dustin Johnson owned the property. The building's size and unusual number of entries suggests that it had an early commercial function.

The structure stands near the road with a gas station to one side and a parking lot and modern addition to the other.
