In 1926, Mary Huse Eastman, a librarian with the Wilmington, Delaware Free Public Library, published Index to Fairy Tales, Myths and Legends, a reference tool to assist children's librarians with their storytelling programs. This work has been continuously updated, first by Ms. Eastman, and later by Norma Olin Ireland and Joseph Sprug. This important index still serves librarians today as a source for locating hard to find folk and fairy tales. Many years ago, children's librarians at the Akron Public Library developed a collection of books that correspond to this index. The Eastman Collection now consists of more than 1,000 titles found in Ms. Eastman's work. The collection includes everything from Maori legends to Flemish Christmas tales to tall tales from the mountains of Kentucky.
